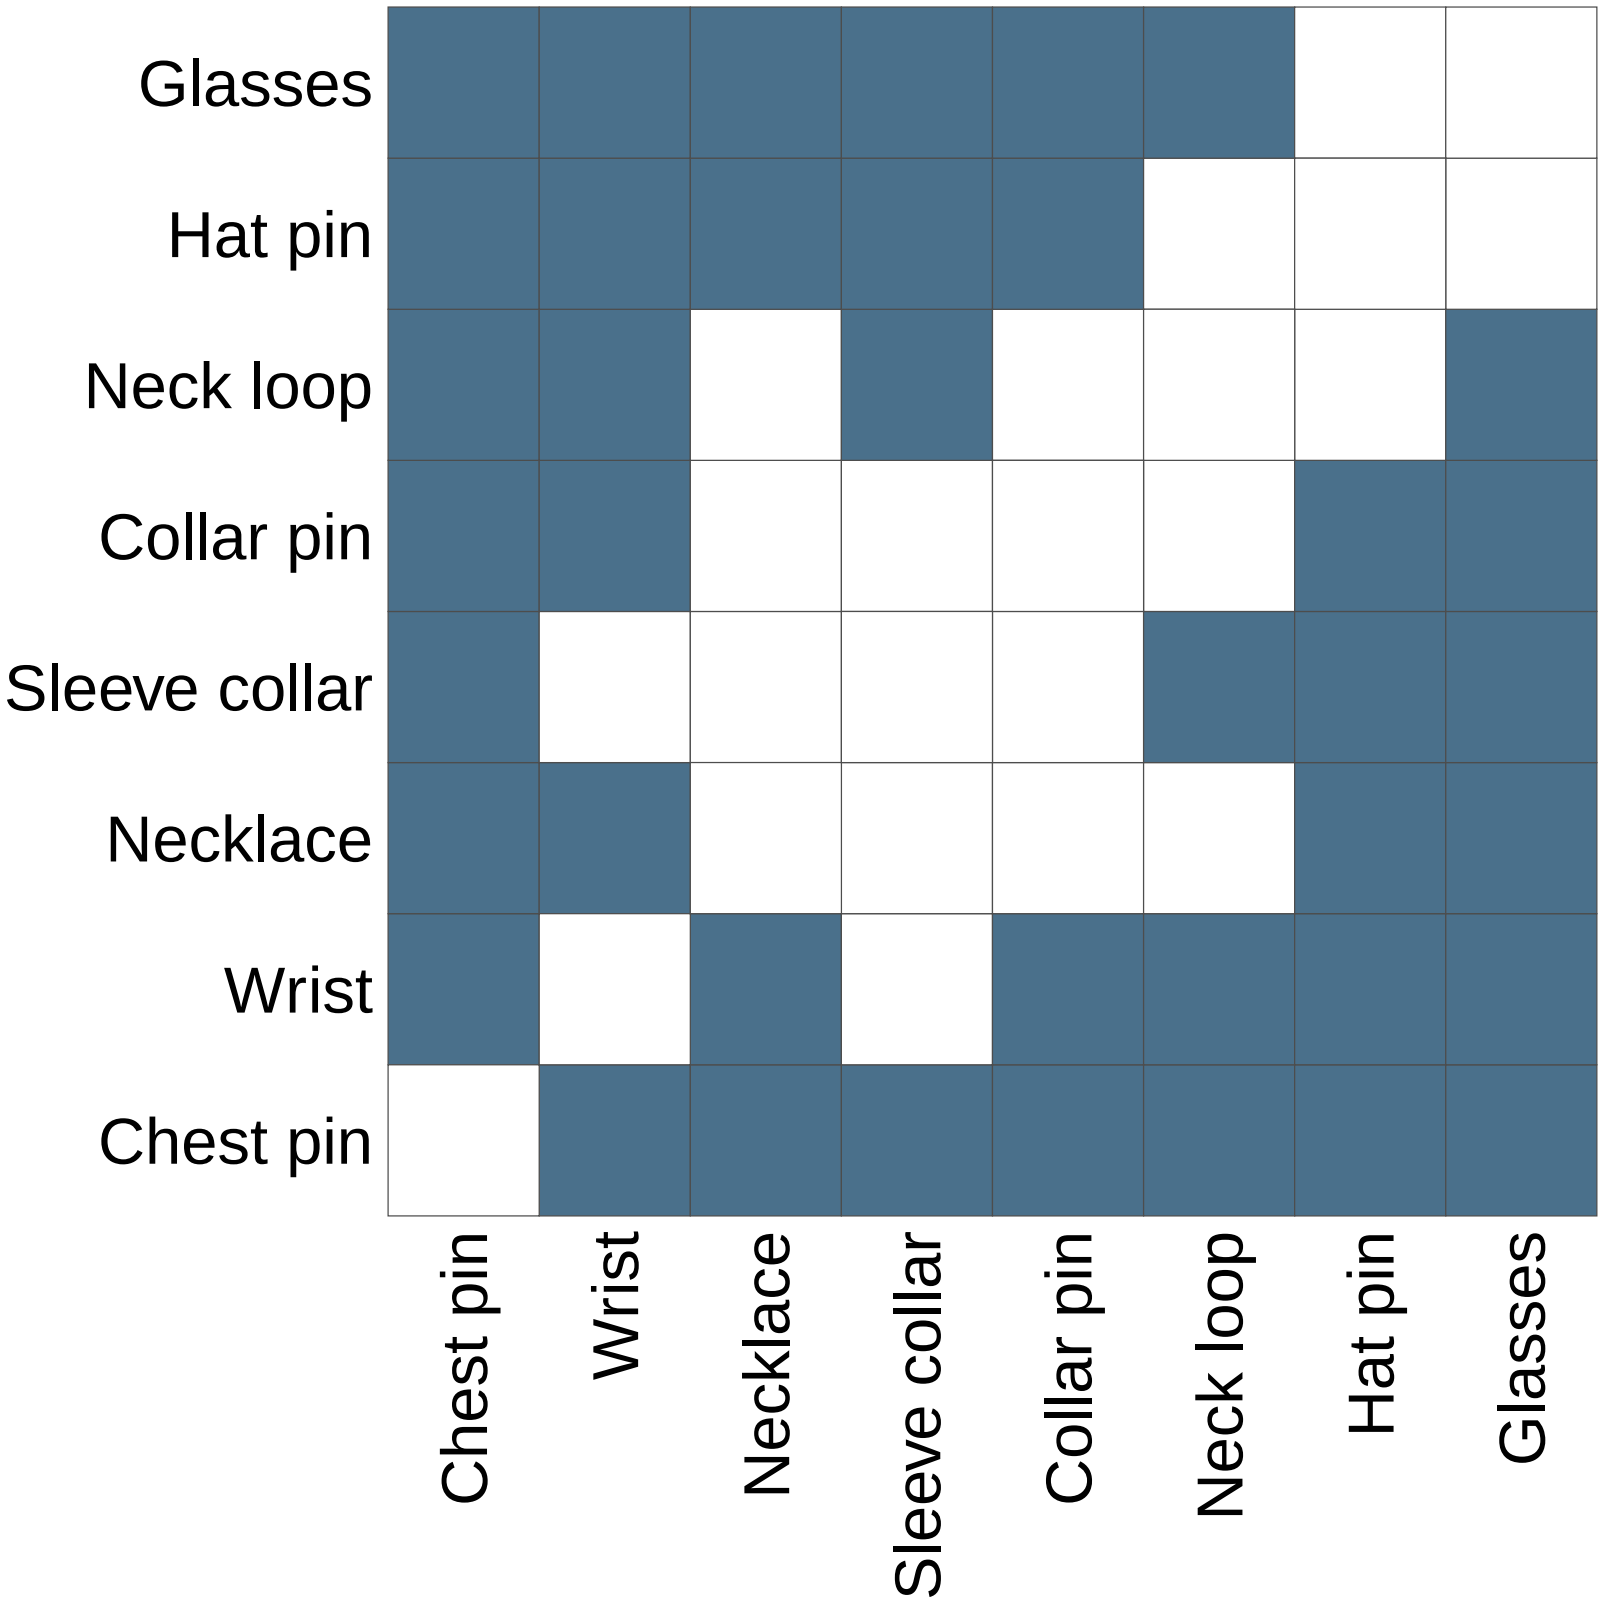
To what extent do you believe the light sensor would restrict your daily activities?


Significant differences due to wearing position